CSI Aviation, Inc. Announces Changes to Senior Staff

(Albuquerque, NM) CSI Aviation is proud to announce changes to its senior staff to be effected in August.

Vice President of Flight Operations, Curt Carlson, who has served with CSI Aviation, Inc. since 2017 following a successful career with Delta Airlines, will retire. CSI's current Vice President of Government Services, Vince Van Ness, will replace Curt Carlson and be promoted to Senior Vice President of Flight Operations. He has been with the company for five years, having formerly managed operational Defense Department contracts for L3 Communications and a successful military career in the U.S. Army and Coast Guard. Van Ness was inducted into the U.S. Coast Guard Aviation Hall of Fame in August of 2020 for outstanding contributions to aviation earlier in his career.

CSI's CEO, Allen Weh, announced these changes in an all-hands email and personally commented, "the company is grateful for Curt's dedication and guidance in achieving the operational achievements it gained under his watch. We are very pleased to have the level of professionalism in our ranks that Vince Van Ness represents and look forward to CSI's continued growth and expansion of services under his leadership."
